

Master Thesis Cup in Marine Biology 2019

25th June 2019

Place: Universitetsparken 4, 3. sal, 2100 København Ø

Event: Since 2015 the Danish Society for Marine Biology has hosted an annual Cup, where members of the society and in particular students can attend and hear some of their fellow students present their master theses and thus, celebrate the diversity of marine biological research in Denmark. This year we are happy once again to host this glorious event. This year as a new feature the entire event will be in English. The format is simple, each candidate gives a presentation about their master thesis work covering a marine-related research topic. These students will subsequently receive a number of points from the audience, based on how inspiring, cool and interesting their communication/presentation is - and the winner will receive the annual Cup Trophy. We are already recruiting candidates for the Cup, but spots are limited, so the only question left is: are you one of the candidates?

Following the event, we will find a place to grab a beer, have nerdy conversations and share bad jokes about marine science while celebrating the upcoming of summer.

Then please contact: email: dansk.sfmb@gmail.com

Facebook: @DanskSelskabForMarinbiologi

Similar to previous years the student presentations will be followed by presentations by several researchers from the Danish universities, which are invited to give short presentations about the opportunities for future studies (e.g. bachelor or master courses + thesis).